Long time fans of the show will love the behind the scenes information that Rado shares, along with never before reported stories emanated from the halls of the 50,000 watt AM radio powerhouse that were experienced by the staffers but never written about.

There are no photos, no pictures to color with crayons, no puzzles or games... just funny stories that you can read one at a time or all at once.

Here's what some people who have read the book have to say about Buying Crack and Other Stories ...

"This Book Doesn't Suck!"

- Rado's Wife.

"A quick read, thank God!"

- Rado's Sister.

"He should've done a cookbook!"

- Rado's brother.

"Where are the pictures?"

- Rado's 5-year-old niece.

"The cover art sells the book!"

- Rado's brother who did the cover art.

"To me, it's a great book. My table is now balanced!"

- Rado's brother with a short table leg.

"If you read it backwards it says 'Paul is Dead'."

- Rado's other sister.

"I refuse to associate myself with this because this book will set society back decades, and I don't want that on my resume."

- The person Rado asked first to be the editor of the book.

"Don't buy crayons, it's not that type of book."

- One of Rado's other brothers.

"Great for the bathroom; as an emergency paper source."

- Yet another one of Rado's loving brothers.

"Must see; but don't read."

- Holy cow, another Rado brother?

"Buy this book so I can get my money back."

- Friend to whom Rado owes money

"Not siprized, Rado wuz the smartest kid in da Cleeveand publick skool sisstim.."

- Rado's best friend from Cleveland South high school.
